Our Hearts Are Heavy For Texas

We have all been captured by hurricane Harvey and the events taking place in Texas recently. As the storm inundates Texas with heavy rains and catastrophic flooding we are all gripped by the pain of those living through such an awful experience. One news report noted that enough water had fallen on Texas to fill every college and professional football stadium in the USA ten times!

While it has been reassuring to see government agencies and leaders responding one cannot help but wonder, “How can I help?” We are approximately fifteen hundred miles from the severest impacted areas of the storm. So, what can we do from here? Some of you may want to jump on the next plane to Texas. Some may be ready to hop into your car and start driving to Texas. However, before we head down to singlehandedly deliver Texas from its plight, let’s take a look at some things we can do to help those dear people.

- 1) Pray - As followers of Jesus let’s focus our eyes upon the Savior Himself before we fix our eyes on Texas. Let’s be careful not to fall into the sinful mind of worry and look to prayer as our first and best aid to those in Texas.
- 2) Prepare - NC Baptist Men do a fantastic job aiding in disasters such as we see in Texas. Take advantage of your next opportunity to get the training they offer each year in order to be best prepared to respond to such disasters in the future.
- 3) Information - Learn all that you can about the situation in Texas. Update your information frequently in order that you might pray specifically for the needs that are evident.
- 4) Give - You can give to the efforts of NC Baptist Men on their website at <http://baptistsonmission.org/Donate>.

The Lord may give you opportunity to go to Texas someday. But these are some very important things you can do from here right now to be effective.
